"A floor isn't just a surface; it's the history of the earth beneath your feet."

The Art of the Search

Our specialists travel to remote geographies to identify blocks of stone and timber that possess unique character. We look for the "flaws" that tell a story—the mineral deposits in limestone, the knots in oak, the irregular textures of handmade terracotta.

This obsession with the raw material ensures that every Garmala installation is a one-of-one masterpiece, impossible to replicate with industrial processes.
